WORLD LYMPHOMA
AWARENESS DAY

15 September
2021

#WLAD2021

This World Lymphoma Awareness Day, join the global lymphoma community and stand up to say:

We Can't Wait to address how the pandemic affected people living with lymphomas.

The global lymphoma community of patients, caregivers, healthcare professionals and patient organisations continue to experience the unintended consequences of the pandemic.

This includes reduced access to testing, care and treatment, fewer diagnoses, overall hesitancy in seeking medical care and less support.

- We can't wait any longer to diagnose and treat lymphomas. Decisions were made to support health care systems that affected patients, but the time has come to resume standard treatment practices safely.
- We can't wait to pay attention when living with lymphomas. Do not delay reporting new symptoms to your doctor. Also keep appointments with your health team.
- We can't wait to support people living with lymphomas. The needs of patients have increased during the pandemic. If you can, please volunteer or support our organisation – we need your help.
